Maximize your investment with MaxView® training.

Rockwell Collins' MaxView training program provides flexible, interactive and cost-effective training on MaxView's core software as well as on customized solutions for advanced Network Management Systems. Courses are targeted for specific audiences to ensure customers receive the greatest benefit from their investment. A well-trained user can put MaxView to work in a wide variety of ways that will save your company money, while increasing uptime.

New Computer Based Training Courses

Rockwell Collins now offers Computer Based Training (CBT) through the internet. These courses are self-paced, interactive and available 24 X 7 to teach new operators or to serve as a quick refresher for more seasoned staff. They are available for an annual subscription fee for MaxView maintenance customers.

COURSE 1

MaxView Operator Training provides an overview of the products and basic operator functions. After reviewing this course, you will be able to operate and administer a MaxView system and use the reporting module for your personalized reporting needs.

COURSE 2

MaxView Panels explains how to customize GUI panels so users see the information they need in a way that makes sense to them. It equips you to modify the MaxView GUI to look the way you want it to appear.

NEW ON-SITE SYSTEM HEALTH CHECKS

In addition to traditional training, Rockwell Collins will send an expert MaxView® Systems Engineer to your site to perform a hands-on evaluation of your MaxView system. This consulting engagement includes evaluation of system health, issue troubleshooting, user interaction and assistance, and targeted training. Shortly after the visit, we deliver a written analysis of the findings, including recommendations for system improvement and optimization.

Rockwell Collins offers an array of instructor-led courses for the beginning operator through the experienced network administrator. Whether it is through traditional classroom training, CBT or a System Health Check, our goal is to have customers gain more autonomy over their MaxView systems and to maximize their return on investment.
